

Walk in the Shoes of a Person with Dyslexia

How does it feel to have dyslexia?

Find out through this interactive workshop that simulates the experiences and frustrations of a person with dyslexia trying to perform language-related tasks.

FREE EVENT

Date: Wednesday, April 26, 2017

Time: Doors open at 6:15 p.m.

Event: 6:45 p.m.-9:00 p.m.

Where: Riverview Intermediate Unit #6

270 Mayfield Road

Clarion, PA 16214

Refreshments provided by Seneca Reading Council

Experience Dyslexia: A Simulation

Presented by: The International Dyslexia Association, Pittsburgh Regional Group

Participants rotate through a series of six stations, which represent problems encountered in reading, decoding, and writing, as well as visual, language, and auditory processing.

The goal is to increase awareness and understanding among educators, parents, siblings, and professionals who want to better understand the struggles of those with reading and learning challenges through a first-hand experience.

What is Dyslexia?

- * Dyslexia is a specific learning disability that is neurological in origin.
- * Characterized by difficulties with accurate and/or fluent word recognition and by poor spelling and decoding abilities.
- * Studies show individuals with dyslexia process information in a different area of the brain than do non-dyslexics.
- * People who have dyslexia are of average to above-average intelligence.

Register at: <http://bit.ly/2nD5zJ0>

For more information, contact: Denise A. Ross dross@riu6.org

Sponsored by the RIU #6 National Network of Partnership Schools Grant.

